

Reflection on Client Feedback

My client approved of the early plan, and structure of the site how it is right. She did ask for some theme request that I did not previously in the original design. And that will be added as the site takes its shape. But for now we are good to go.